South Africa Mission Team Returns Home

Despite glitches in travel on the return trip, the Country Club Christian Church South Africa Mission team found the journey to be an amazing experience.

They returned in groups on Mar. 22 after several delays in the trip home.

The team's journey began when it arrived in East London, South Africa on Mar. 8 where they joined Revs. Jon and Dawn Barnes, our mission partners there. They toured the area, seeing entire neighborhoods of homes made of tin scraps. They visited an elementary school, where students were delighted to greet the mission team. A visit to the Samaritan Care Centre showed those who had been on the 2007 trip the transformation since their last visit.

The team traveled to the rural township of Bedford for a majority of their work, helping at the Them bani Special Day Care Centre. They hung curtains made by our congregation's sewing ladies, painted and built shelves. They organized activities with the children, utilizing activity bags prepared by our youth.

For a taste of the African continent, the group visited the Schotia game reserve, driving through the private reserve during the afternoon and night, seeing giraffes, zebras, ostriches, lions and more.

Finally, the team visited Ons Plek ("Our Place"), a shelter for girls living on the streets of Cape Town and beyond, which will be a recipient of our Easter offering.

From Here to Easter

by Dr. R. Glen Miles

There is a great temptation in the church to skip happily from the pageant of Palm Sunday to the joyous shouts of Easter hallelujahs, to go right past Maundy Thursday and Good Friday and all of the dark and doubt-filled questions that arise on those days to the glory of a sunny resurrection celebration.

But yesterday, on Palm Sunday, we had a clue about what this week is going to be like. There will be ambiguity and doubt. The hint was right there in the beautiful processional hymn, “All Glory Laud and Honor.” There was a powerful reminder of who Jesus is, “a child of Israel, Great David’s greater son.” But there was also an idea about the meaning of this week in the life of the church: “You ride in lowly triumph.” The shouts and the pomp may appear to be a welcome for a mighty king but his appearing on a colt tells us something altogether different.

I would really rather not pay attention to this detail, to this description of humble lowliness. I want to feel good on Palm Sunday and I want to feel even better on Easter and just forget about the uncertainty that surrounds Jesus in the days between now and then. We can’t do this, though, because the church must always be willing to tell the truth. Peter Gomes, in his book, Biblical Wisdom for Daily Living, writes, “The human condition is one of unresolved ambiguity, and the suffering and death that come from the ambiguity are real.” If the church skips happily to Easter that action keeps us from telling the truth about life itself.

On Palm Sunday we welcomed the Messiah. We shouted “Hosanna!” We believe that he came to save. But here is the rub; he will save not in the way we might expect. At the end of the story in Mark’s gospel, Jesus enters the city alone. There is an implied question being asked here: Are you willing to follow? Are you willing to walk on this path with Jesus even if it leads to a cross, to a dark and doubt-filled day?

The answer to those questions is not an easy one. We may want to stay outside the walls, play it safe, stay put, avoid risk.

But Holy Week is no time to hold back. This is the week to risk it all, to take the next step, to honestly ask who we are and where our lives are going. Every one of us will find ourselves alone on this path but the good news is this: Christ goes before us.

Blessings to you and your Easter path,

Rev. Aday To Be on Sabbatical

This year Rev. Carla Aday completes 21 years of service on the church staff. In accordance with the church personnel policies, Carla will take a sabbatical leave from May 11- Aug. 19, 2009.

The purpose of sabbatical is renewal and reflection, to provide times for intentional exploration, for gaining enthusiasm and creativity for ministry. In this way, the sabbatical period benefits both congregation and pastor. While away, Rev. Aday will attend two conferences: New Visions for the Long Pastorate, sponsored by Alban Institute, and Faith and Writing taught by Nora Gallagher at Yale Divinity School. She will also spend one month in Italy: two weeks at a monastery and two weeks traveling.

During the sabbatical other members of the staff will tend to the various ministry areas in Rev. Aday’s portfolio.

Worship with us!

Do We Have Your Email Address?

Stay Informed through Electronic Communications

Did you know you can help the church save money and be more environmentally friendly by getting your copy of the newsletter and other important communications via email? We already have reduced the number of mailed newsletters by 50 percent, a substantial savings for the church. But we need your help in reducing this number even more.

Do we have a current email address for you on file? If we don't, or you're not sure, contact Jane Fletcher with the correct information at janef@cccckc.org. You'll receive special communications from Dr. R. Glen Miles, as well as the e-newsletter a few days earlier than the mailed edition, and in full color! If you haven't been receiving electronic communications from the church, but want to, let Jane know.

Your Pledges at Work

by Sandy Eisenman, Director of Financial Services

Tight budgets, stimulus packages, cutbacks, layoffs. This is the language we are becoming accustomed to in this time of financial recession and global uncertainty. The news everyday is full of stories of people in trouble, companies on the brink of bankruptcy; it's easy to become wary, even if we are not directly affected.

Here at Country Club Christian Church, we are taking the financial situation very seriously. Every budget is being closely monitored and evaluated. Ministers and lay leaders are being asked to cut back on spending where possible. But please understand, this is not to be an article filled with doom and gloom. Country Club Christian Church is a vibrant organization. Every staff member and lay leader is committed to maintaining the outstanding level of worship, programming and services, which have been part of our 80 plus year tradition. Children and youth programs are vibrant and relevant; visitors attend worship every week and come back because they find a welcoming congregation; outreach opportunities abound locally and internationally and outreach dollars continue to make a difference in our community; the list goes on and on.

Being the financial person around here, I must come back to the dollars. Our budget was set last summer, based on our best projections of contributions from our members and visitors. Those contributions are now somewhat below what we had projected, but the encouraging news is, if members fulfill the pledges they made last spring, we will balance our budget for this fiscal year. This seems like a simple thing to accomplish, but I know that everyone may not be able to complete their pledge. My hope is that the vast majority of members will choose to do so, to continue the great work that is happening everyday at Country Club Christian Church.

History Committee Photo Gallery

The History Committee is the newest committee of the church and has been charged with preserving, organizing and making accessible the artifacts from the life of our congregation.

Please take a moment to enjoy the first project of the committee. The church hallways in the administrative area of the building are lined with photographs and artifacts

CYF Mission Trip to Cheyenne River Indian Reservation

June 14-20 in Eagle Butte, South Dakota

CYF youth, including graduating 8th graders, will travel to Eagle Butte, SD, June 14-20 to learn about and live for a week among Native Americans.

This is an opportunity to leave the fast-paced, over-scheduled Kansas City lifestyle behind and experience a completely different one. We will be in one of the poorest counties in the U.S., working with the Cheyenne River Youth Project in Eagle Butte.

We will work in the reservation's organic garden, help organize the warehouse of donated items, break up a basketball court in preparation for building a new one, and experience a pow-wow.

Leading the trip will be Dr. Glen Miles, Senior Minister, and Mary Lehoczky.

We will travel by van. Bring your sleeping bags as we will be staying in the Volunteer Center at the reservation. The youth will prepare most of their meals. Cost of the trip has not been finalized but is estimated to be $350. A $50 deposit is required to reserve your place. Contact Chris Trout at christ@cccckc.org to sign up.

6th/7th Grade Mission Trip

The 6th and 7th graders will be going to St. Louis for their mission trip experience this year. The dates are from the early afternoon of July 19 to later in the evening July 23. More is coming soon! If you have any questions contact Justin Zeigler at justinz@cccckc.org

Unresolved Cadence

by Rev. David Diebold, Minister of Music

In music, a cadence is a point where the composition comes to a place of rest. A cadence might mark the end of a phrase, a section, or the end of the piece. It usually involves two or more chords that signal for the listener where the music needs to move on (open) or feels final (closed). Cadences are a lot like punctuation in a sentence. They might reflect a comma, colon, semi-colon, period, even an exclamation point. Of course, cadences appear in life as well.

Consider the following life transitions: graduation from high school/college; marriage/divorce; baptism/ordination; a new job or retirement. All provide moments in our lives that are open or closed. Each of these life events adds to our lives the commas, colons, and exclamation points, just like a musical cadence or grammatical punctuation. Of course, in terms of human existence, the final transition is death. It is the ultimate period.

In a musical composition, one expects that the final cadence will produce a feeling of finality, of coming home musically for good. In the last movement of his Requiem, Maurice Duruflé does something so startling and unusual that the listener is forced to scratch their head and wonder what it is that Duruflé intends his listeners to infer from this curious final chord.

Midway through this movement, the lowest voices of the orchestra and organ sound the “home” pitch. It is sustained throughout the remainder of the movement. This lets the listener know that the end is coming. However as the tension in the harmony prepares us for the final chord, we expect resolution. What we get instead is an open cadence. The chord Duruflé uses contains an interval that must, absolutely must, resolve...but it doesn't. It hangs in the air waiting.

Duruflé was a devote Roman Catholic. In his theological world view, this “unresolved” cadence makes sense when applied to his view of death (the ultimate period). His choice of final chord is quite literally letting the listener know that there is more beyond. The resolution comes later. In this musical scenario, death is not the ultimate period, but rather a comma or perhaps a colon or semi-colon. What better way to prepare us for the new life we celebrate on Easter?

David

New Energy Efficient Boilers Installed

Two new energy-efficient, gas-powered boilers were recently installed to heat the church. The Practical Services Council expects to save several thousand dollars annually in reduced utility bills and looks forward to quickly recouping the expense of this purchase.

Work crew removing old boilers.

The decision to buy new boilers was made after a failure within the old one was judged too expensive to repair. The two new boilers provide a primary/secondary system that is much more efficient than the old one. One of the boilers is twice the size of its companion and will be the primary heating source. The smaller boiler will provide redundancy and extra power if needed.
