The Lord's Prayer

by Dr. R. Glen Miles

When Jesus invites the disciples to pray, "Our father" he is introducing something new. He is using the word "Abba." It is an Aramaic word that can easily be translated "daddy." Its root word is Ab, an ancient Middle Eastern term that refers to fruit. It is a term that signifies the very source of our being. It does not carry with it any gender reference at all.

What Jesus does is use this term as a way of introducing intimacy with God into the disciples' lives. He wants them to see that they can relate to God in a cherished and close way. He wants them to see God as their daddy or God as their mommy. The focus of Jesus' teaching is not on gender, it is on relationship. Jesus is inviting them to relate to God in such a way that their entire lives are affected by it.

James Mulholland, the author of the book Praying Like Jesus, said that one Sunday he replaced "Our father" with "Our daddy." A woman came up to him afterwards very upset that he had done this. He said, "I was just trying to pray like Jesus." She said, "Well, you're not Jesus!"

That is true. He is not, but he is on to a good idea. This prayer is an invitation to an intimate relationship with the Holy. But it is also one that is spoken in public. When we pray "Our father" we are acknowledging a very public and communal form of faith. Mulholland helps us see that this faith invites us to consider our bread, our sins, our willingness to forgive each other, our need to be led away from temptation. To say, "My" when praying the Lord's Prayer changes the very nature of the prayer.

In our prayer we begin, "Our father, which art in heaven." Where is God? In heaven. We are not. Not yet anyway. When we pray to God in heaven we are inviting God to break into our world and show us a new way.

I know it's not always easy. It is not always easy in the community of faith to focus on what matters most. The Apostle Paul knew this. He wrote to the church in Rome and reminded them that the Spirit of God "helps us in our weakness; for we do not know how to pray as we ought, but that very Spirit intercedes with sighs too deep for words."

When we sigh together, when we pray together, when we publicly acknowledge our need for forgiveness and grace, we are, together, on the road toward a whole new world.

Grace and peace to you,

June Collection Connection

Donate Old Hearing Aids and Eyeglasses

Do you wear hearing aids, or know somebody who does? Do you have old prescription eyeglasses? Are there discarded ones sitting in drawers or boxes because they seem too expensive to throw away but no longer serve their purpose?

Children's Mercy Hospital Hearing and Speech Clinic has an arrangement with a company that recycles discarded aids so hearing-impaired children can hear. If you would like to contribute one or more hearing aids, put the aid(s) in a plastic bag, enclose the name and address of the contributor, and place it in the box in the parlor.

Prescription eyeglasses are being collected in conjunction with Lion's Club International during the same period.

Kingswood Senior Living Community will take them to the clinic and to the Lion's Club.

S.P.I.C.E. (Society for the Preservation of Interesting and Creative Eldership)

Plan to join us at 11:00 a.m. on Wed., June 17, in the Social Hall for lunch and a musical journey down "Memory Lane" provided by Carl Bolte. Our meal will showcase the trout "the boys" brought back from their annual trip to Arkansas. We thank Lance Jessee, Tom Lieurance, Bob Riggle, George Gordon, Randy Irely, and John Stewart for sharing their catch with us. SPICE gatherings are open to any retirement age members or friends of Country Club Christian Church. RSVP by Fri., June 12, to Mary Margaret House at marymargareth@cccckc.org or 816-333-4917.

Amen

by Lisa McCleish, Director of Early Childhood Programs

Another school year has ended for Weekday Programs. Although many of the children will be in the summer program, we celebrated the end of the year. There was a lot of reminiscing the past few weeks about everything that has happened since the beginning of the year.

In September we opened with a new infant room, allowing us to enroll an additional 30 children in the Parents Day Out program. A preschool camp was added on Monday and Friday for those who needed childcare when preschool was not in session.

October, November and December were busy months. The children celebrated each holiday with long-standing traditions of a costume parade, the preschool Thanksgiving Feast, and a Christmas program performed by the preschool classes and attended by their families and the PDO children.

When the children returned from Christmas break, they were excited to be back at school—and the parents were too! Many of the babies were celebrating their first birthday and the toddlers were starting to talk. The weather prevented the children from going outside for much of February so they explored the church, listening to the organ while sitting quietly in the Sanctuary (no small feat for 2 year olds) and, after looking at the Zappia sculpture, deciding that “those people are eating pasta and drinking Diet Coke.”

Thankfully there were several days in March when the children were able to get outside for walks and to play in leftover snow on the playground. Many of the classes held Easter egg hunts in April and the preschool children joined the church Green Team in planting a vegetable garden.

May arrived so quickly. Children who clung to a parent at the beginning of the year, frightened of the unknown, now ran in the door each morning calling their friends’ names. A preschooler waved to his mom as he headed up the steps to his class; she hung back telling me he had asked to be dropped off at the curb so he could walk in by himself (like his older sister) so they compromised with him walking up the steps with his friends. The children celebrated fun week by wearing pajamas and hats and western wear; they sat on the church steps listening to a parent play the bagpipes and played with “pilot toys” after listening to another parent speak about being a pilot in the Air National Guard.

The last day of school I walked the halls marveling at how much the children had grown. I stopped to listen to the young toddlers pray before they ate lunch. Eight little voices, all in unison and with hands folded, recite, “God is great, God is good, let us thank him for our food.” Then they throw their hands in the air shouting AMEN!

The Concert of Life

by Rev. David Diebold, Minister of Music

Sunday, May 24 was during a holiday weekend. Worship attendance was expectedly lower than usual. But as we worshipped together in each of the services, I was struck by an energy in the hymn singing. It felt as if everyone was singing “from the heart” and with one voice.

I have an old Delft tile in my office, surrounded by a simple wooden frame. It is typical, in the sense that it is the traditional blue and white. But instead of the usual depictions of Dutch life, floral designs, or landscape scenes, it bears an old Dutch saying. Translated, the tile reads: “In the concert of life, no one has a program.” It is a simple saying; one that we can probably all agree is truthful.

All of us have been touched in a variety of ways by the unexpectedness of life. Whether the events are good or bad, we never know when they will come. And, while we would hope to move through life with the ease of someone untouched by the capriciousness of life, it is never that easy.

Frequently I say that we are purveyors of words. Not just when we are singing a hymn or an anthem, but in life as well. Words are what we have to communicate with each other. But when it comes to singing, I think that it is much more than simply words, notes and rhythms....it is the text that must be sung....sung from deep within...from that place where we all have experienced both the devastations that sometimes life can send our way and the great joy we experience at other times. We must sing as if our collective song is a universal prayer for light and peace and hope for all of God’s creatures. Joan Walsh Anglund once said: “A bird does not sing because she has an answer. She sings because she has a song.”

Each day we have songs to sing, in our weekday world and on Sunday. We bring to the singing our own individual experiences. It is one of my deepest hopes that when we join together in song we raise a single voice that brings our words to life.

Many of the summer Sundays classes will be combined in the Social Hall to allow for 3½ year olds through children just completing 5th grade to participate in these special activities.

Here is a sampling of what we will be doing:

June 7 – How Is Our Church Going Green? Learn about all the ways we are trying to recycle, reuse and reduce!

June 14 – Eco Elvis.

Eco Elvis will perform Elvis songs featuring lyrics about recycling, composting and car-pooling (all are invited to enjoy this special performance)!

Also, a Rain Garden is being constructed at the south end of the Chapel parking lot.

Mary Buehler and Marie Hunter work in the Peter Rabbit garden outside the east entrance.

The edible garden at the south entrance is already producing, with four bags donated to Harvesters so far and more to come.
